The report should note how ridership changed over the course of the two days, in order to note whether consecutive days of free fares increase ridership more than a single isolated day of free fares. The report should note geographic areas (TRAX lines, bus routes, etc.) that saw the greatest changes in ridership during the two Free-Fare Days. This report should also include an estimate of the tons of criteria pollutants and greenhouse gases diverted from the airshed as a result of this event. This report will be provided to the County no later than June 1, 2019.

5. The County, through its own resources as well as through its relationships with local economic development organizations, municipalities, chambers of commerce, and other associates and partners will promote the UTA Free-Fare Day.

FINAL REPORT SUMMARY

AUGUST 11, 2017

THE CHALLENGE

Utah's population is anticipated to nearly double between 2010 and 2050. That means nearly twice as many demands on our roads and transit lines. More people means more goods and services to be delivered, more employees commuting to work, and more errands to run.

While travel demands continue to grow, there is less room to widen roads or add new transportation infrastructure. This challenge of considerable growth with limited space is most concentrated along the I-15/FrontRunner corridor from southern Davis County to northern Utah County.

THE PARTNERSHIP

To prepare for such a rapidly changing transportation future, Utah's four largest transportation agencies came together to conduct the Wasatch Front Central Corridor Study. These agencies include the Mountainland Association of Governments (MAG), Utah Department of Transportation (UDOT), Utah Transit Authority (UTA), and Wasatch Front Regional Council (WFRC). Their goal was to develop a more integrated range of solutions along the I-15/FrontRunner corridor that could serve Utahns through 2050.

LOTS OF PEOPLE
 — NOT MUCH SPACE —
LOTS MORE TRAVEL

PLANNING DIFFERENTLY

Substantial population growth combined with limited space, rapidly developing technology, and changing demographics require us to think differently about how we plan for the future.

Because homes and office buildings are so close to I-15, widening roads alone, without adding to other modes of transportation like transit and bike trails, is not a feasible approach to prepare for the Wasatch Front's growing travel demands. In fact, a roads-only approach would require about 70 percent more miles of travel lanes by 2050 to match the miles of travel lanes per person that Utahns are accustomed to today.

I-15 Lanes Needed by 2050 at 7200 South if Widening is the Only Solution Considered

REFINED SCENARIOS

The study team developed three scenarios with solutions to address future travel needs along the I-15/FrontRunner corridor. These scenarios are alike because they integrate I-15, surface streets, transit, active transportation, and transportation-related programs; they differ in their placement along the spectrum below that ranges from building more infrastructure to better managing existing infrastructure.

Given the physical constraints of existing office buildings and homes, the geographic location between the mountains and a lake, and the costs required to build more infrastructure, the study team explored ways to maximize the existing infrastructure while keeping people, goods, and services moving.

TRANSPORTATION GOALS

The study team worked to find solutions along the I-15/FrontRunner corridor that met broad, desirable goals to connect people to jobs, education, and other interests, balance a variety of transportation choices, manage congestion, and preserve Utah's exemplary quality of life in a rapidly changing travel environment.

 IMPROVE SAFETY	 INCREASE PERSON THROUGHPUT	 IMPROVE TRAVEL TIME RELIABILITY	 INCREASE ACCESSIBILITY TO JOBS & EDUCATION
 IMPROVE AIR QUALITY	 IMPROVE ECONOMIC OUTCOMES	 REDUCE HOUSEHOLD TRANSPORTATION COSTS	 IMPROVE MODE BALANCE

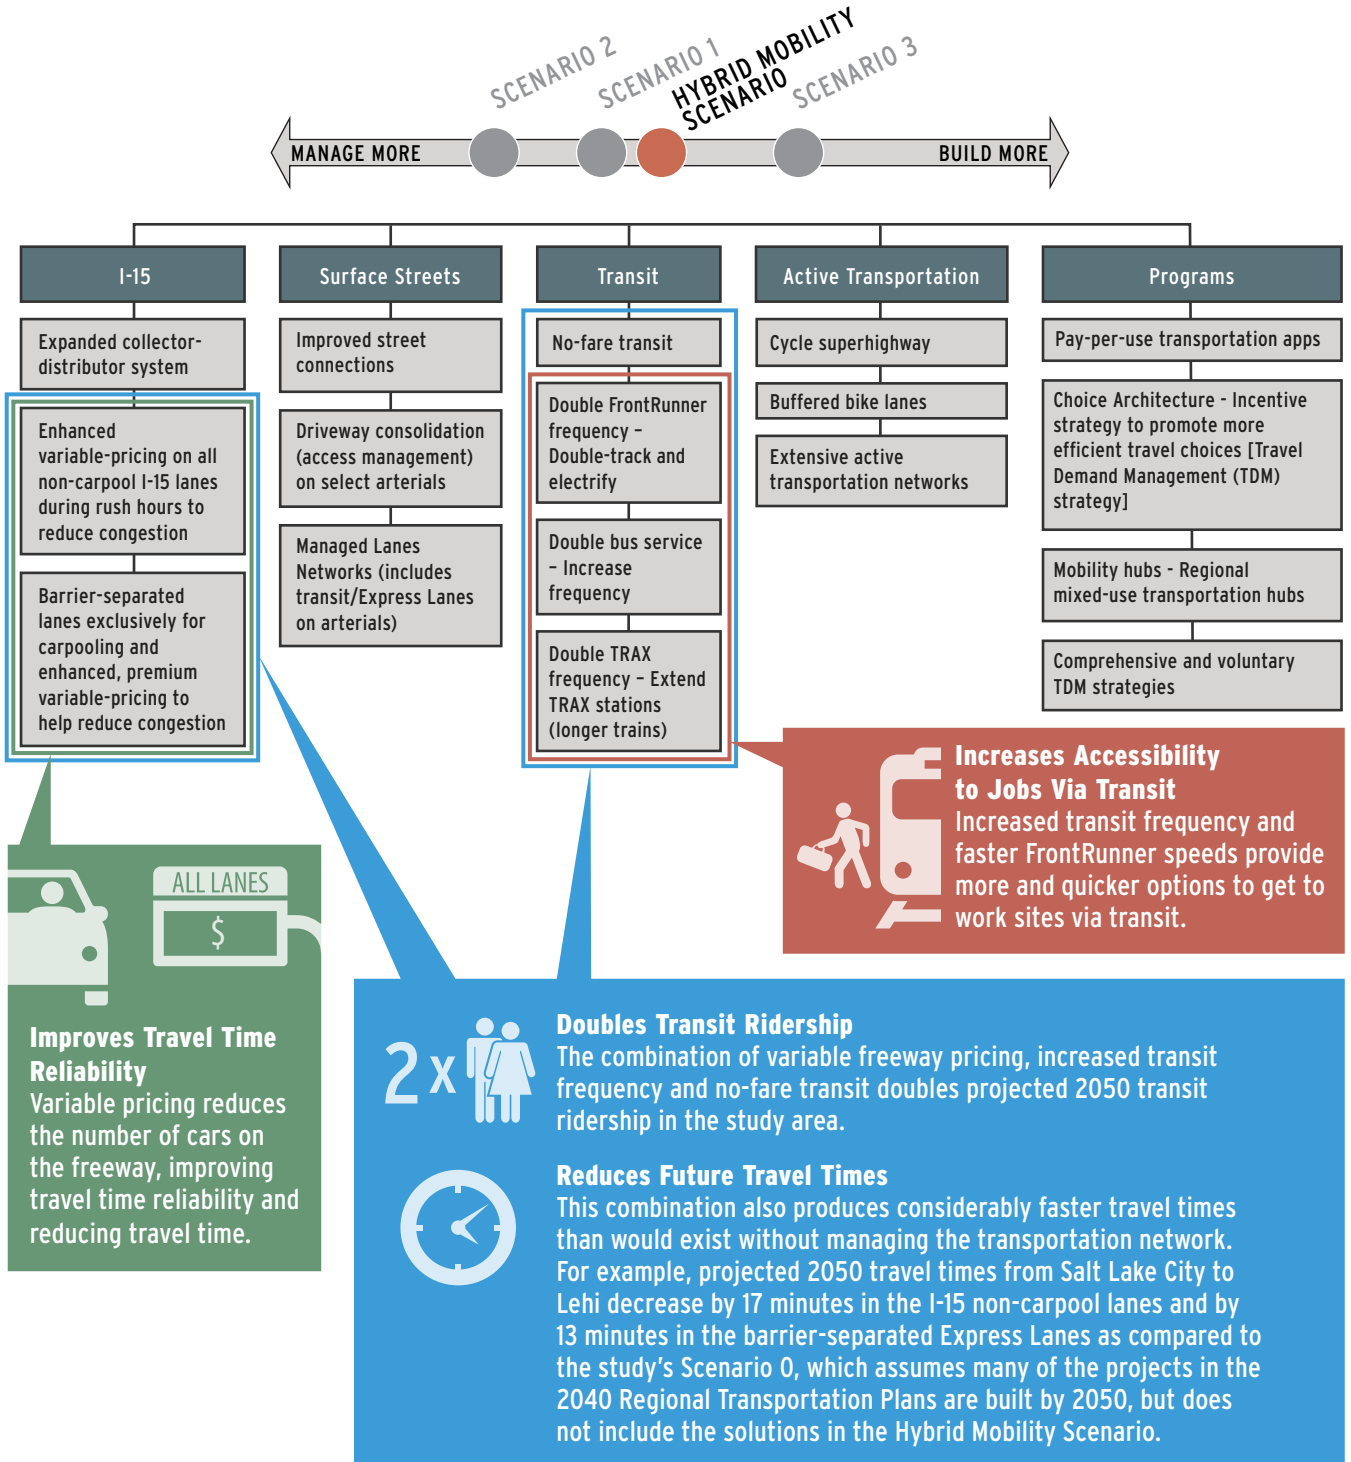

REFINED SCENARIOS COMPARISON

To prepare for a more populated and multi-modal transportation system, planners used more comprehensive measures of success like access to jobs and reliability of travel times. These measures reflect the performance of an entire transportation system: roads, transit, pedestrian, and bike.

	 BEST  MODERATE  WORST	SCENARIO 1 Shows a modest shift toward transit and away from single-occupancy vehicles on I-15 by managing freeway and roadway capacity more efficiently and incentivizing transit use.	SCENARIO 2 Optimizes transportation network utilization through variable freeway pricing, expanding transit and incentivizing transit use.	SCENARIO 3 Adds freeway and transit capacity without improving efficiency.

HYBRID MOBILITY SCENARIO*

Based on the performance of potential solutions relative to the I-15/FrontRunner corridor’s goals, a Hybrid Mobility Scenario was developed. The Hybrid Mobility Scenario includes solutions from the three refined scenarios that remained after additional screening and analysis. These solutions, which combine better managing the existing roadway network and building more transit, are still exploratory and will be considered in regional transportation plans for further discussion and vetting among state and local leaders and the public. (See the last page of this document for more information about public outreach next steps.)

Assumes 2040 Regional Transportation Plan Projects are Built
The Hybrid Mobility Scenario assumes that many study-area projects in the unfunded or vision phases of the WFRC and MAG 2040 Regional Transportation Plans will be built by 2050. These projects could include widening 14600 South, Redwood Road and the Mountain View Corridor, as well as several Bus Rapid Transit and Enhanced Bus projects.

PROCESS AND NEXT STEPS

Solutions from the study will be considered in the WFRC and MAG 2019-2050 Regional Transportation Plans (RTPs) and ultimately Utah's Unified Transportation Plan. WFRC and MAG develop the RTPs jointly with local government officials, UDOT, and UTA.

The public will have opportunities to provide input during the RTP planning processes.

STUDY FUNDING

The Wasatch Front Central Corridor Study was funded by a Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) Transportation Investment Generating Economic Recovery (TIGER) Grant and matching funds from UDOT, UTA, WFRC, and MAG. Dear Business Leader,

In 2010, as the national debate on immigration policy escalated, a coalition of Utah businesses, non-profit organizations, faith groups, law enforcement and community leaders coalesced behind a set of principles to guide the immigration discussion. The document they signed, known as The Utah Compact, changed the tone and greatly improved the substance of the immigration debate in Utah and across the nation.

In recent months, immigration policy has once again been pushed to the forefront of the national conversation. At the same time, many of the organizations that championed The Utah Compact nearly a decade ago now have new leadership and a new crop of elected officials now holds important policy-making positions. The time has come for a new generation of leaders to take up the mantle and champion the principles outlined in The Utah Compact.

On March 21, 2019, we will hold a media event to reaffirm our support for the principles of The Utah Compact, while encouraging new leaders from across our community to pledge their support, as well.

We invite you to add your name and business to the list of supporters to be released at the media event.

You can click here to grant us permission to list you and your organization as a supporter.

Thank you for all you do to support Utah's business community. Please let me know if you have questions or concerns.

Sincerely,

Derek Miller

THE UTAH COMPACT

A DECLARATION OF FIVE PRINCIPLES TO GUIDE UTAH'S IMMIGRATION DISCUSSION

FEDERAL SOLUTIONS Immigration is a federal policy issue between the U.S. government and other countries—not Utah and other countries. We urge Utah's congressional delegation, and others, to lead efforts to strengthen federal laws and protect our national borders. We urge state leaders to adopt reasonable policies addressing immigrants in Utah.

LAW ENFORCEMENT We respect the rule of law and support law enforcement's professional judgment and discretion. Local law enforcement resources should focus on criminal activities, not civil violations of federal code.

FAMILIES Strong families are the foundation of successful communities. We oppose policies that unnecessarily separate families. We champion policies that support families and improve the health, education and well-being of all Utah children.

ECONOMY Utah is best served by a free-market philosophy that maximizes individual freedom and opportunity. We acknowledge the economic role immigrants play as workers and taxpayers. Utah's immigration policies must reaffirm our global reputation as a welcoming and business-friendly state.

A FREE SOCIETY Immigrants are integrated into communities across Utah. We must adopt a humane approach to this reality, reflecting our unique culture, history and spirit of inclusion. The way we treat immigrants will say more about us as a free society and less about our immigrant neighbors. Utah should always be a place that welcomes people of goodwill.
